HISTORY OF THANKSGIVING

How did this "All American" tradition really begin? Over 300 years ago travel-worn pilgrims of the Mayflower arrived in the New World during the year of 1620. After a very long and treacherous journey, the young band of travelers hunkered down for the winter. That winter many would die from disease and exposure. However, luck seemed to be on their side as spring started and the Pawtuxet tribe came to their rescue. The tribe taught them how to survive in the New World. To celebrate a successful harvest, pilgrim and Indian alike came together to partake of the first Thanksgiving feast. However, at this feast there wasn't a football game, parade, or decadent pies and desserts. In fact, not until 1789 was Thanksgiving an official national holiday. Though no one knows exactly what the first Thanksgiving completely entailed, it most likely consisted of native crops and spices.

Today, Thanksgiving has evolved into a holiday with many different traditions. These traditions include football games, shopping, volunteering, delicious turkey, mounds of mashed potatoes, and thousands of varieties of pumpkin desserts. Even though there have been many changes to how we celebrate Thanksgiving, one thing has remained consistent: from the first Thanksgiving in 1621 to 2016, people have celebrated Thanksgiving to give thanks for what they have and who they have in their lives. Regardless of what you may be thankful for, we know we are grateful for you! We hope you have a very plenteous Thanksgiving day surrounded by loved ones! Happy Thanksgiving!
