June 2018

SUMMERTIME

Welcome back to Logan! Summer is in full swing, and we couldn't be more excited! Many of our Summer Citizens have already started to roll into Logan, so let the fun begin! There are already so many activities going on, check our website to stay updated on community and program events.

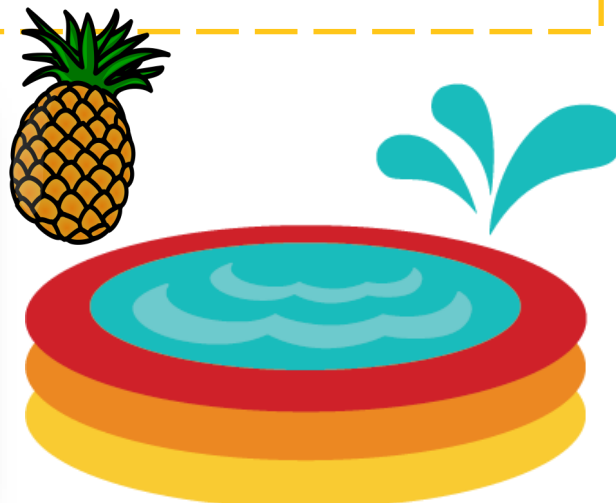

Make sure you come to see us in the Eccles Conference Center once you've gotten settled into your new apartment. (See the map on page 7 of the program book to find us.) Our offices are in the basement of the Conference Center. We'll have a welcome packet, a coupon book, and a parking pass for you when you come!

We hope you are ready for a fun summer with friends and lots of new memories! We're glad you've come to beat the heat in beautiful Cache Valley.

"We've had an amazing 5th year in Logan. Loganites are so welcoming and friendly and there is so much to do! The classes were wonderful."

Meet our new instructors

In 2008, CacheARTs' director Wally Bloss offered Wendi a side project to research the history of the Ellen Eccles Theatre. She totally went down the rabbit hole and emerged from Utah State University's special collections months later with a greater appreciation for the visionary investment of Cache Valley's founders in their cultural facilities and a hunger to know more. She's been collecting stories ever since. She looks forward to sharing them, and probably picking up a few new ones in the new class "History of the Arts in Cache Valley." Wendi Hassan directs the Cache Valley Center for the Arts, the designated local arts agency for Logan City and Cache County. They manage three theaters in Cache Valley. When she's not at the theatre, Wendi is knitting, reading, or hanging out with her husband Dennis and her four grown children, three of whom still live in Cache Valley. Wendi will teach one class this summer: "History of the Arts in Cache Valley".

Peg Neuber learned to knit in the 1970's at an adult education class and hasn't stopped since. She has taught knitting at 2 yarn shops and for Logan City Schools. She also spends time working and teaching at Knit Unique Yarn Shop in Logan. She has been a member of Northern Utah Fibers Artisans Guild for 35 years. She also spins her own yarn when she wants to take a break from knitting.

Peggy will be teaching one class this summer: "Learn to Knit".

Terri Wesemann is a USU graduate student pursuing a dual master's degree in American Studies specializing in Folklore and Technical Communication. She instructs a technical communication class and is collaborating with the Hill Aerospace Museum on a World War II nose art exhibit. She has fond memories of vacations where her family camped at National Parks around the country, which inspired her interest in American history, the people, and culture. She has lived in 11 different states and traveled to 49 of the 50 states. She interned in the History of Aviation in America class where she helped develop a new curriculum and co-taught the Summer Citizen's class on the History of Aviation in America. Terri is married to a pilot and has spent half her life around aviation. Terri has lived in Logan for three years and enjoys walking her Siberian Husky every day and wishes for more time to read for pleasure. She has four boys, two of which are active duty Air Force and two that work in computer science.

Terri will be teaching two classes this summer: "Traveling Across America with Classic Literature" and "Soaring Through the Decades with Aviation Films".
