NEW AGGIE BASKETBALL COACH

Utah State University hired a new basketball coach this past March: Craig Smith. The Aggie basketball team hopes to bring back the “Spectrum Magic” that has made their fan section famous.

Craig Smith has promised to “work [his] hands to the bone to get [the] program back where it belongs.”

Craig Smith is from Minnesota and has been involved with college basketball for 22 years! He has worked at Colorado State, Nebraska, Mayville State, and most recently, the University of South Dakota.

He exhibits a love for the game and is already meeting one-on-one with the players and initializing his coaching staff.

We’re excited to see what Coach Smith will bring to the Spectrum and to Aggie basketball!
